“I would do everything she did. I love it!” – Katrina, age 9

“Cake for Breakfast Every Day” is a feel-good story for bilingual families to share. The story is that of a little girl who imagines all the fun things she would do if she lived in a house with no rules. You’ll be giggling as she collects 100 pets and puts a trampoline in her bedroom.

Written and illustrated by award-winning journalist Kathleen Rasche, “Cake for Breakfast Every Day” is simple reading for reluctant readers or those learning Spanish. It’s meant to be shared. Take the story off the page, too. Readers can imagine aloud all the fun they would have in a house with no rules. Of course, in the end the child realizes having someone to love her is better than anything she can imagine.

Both the English and Spanish words are on each page! The story is also published in an English only edition, and in additional bilingual editions - English and Traditional Chinese, and English and French. Visit <http://www.cakeforbreakfasteveryday.com> to watch the book trailer.
